While Pee-wee learned the valuable lesson of selflessness and discovered holiday traditions around the world, he was serenaded by such musical legends as k.d. lang, who performed ' Jingle Bell Rock ' ; Charo, who sang "Feliz Navidad"; and the inimitable. Soon, the extended family arrives— Clark's parents, Clark Sr. (John Randolph) and Nora (Diane Ladd), and Ellen's mom and dad, Art (E.G. Marshall) and Frances (Doris Roberts) — and the holiday tension starts to mount in the Griswolds' home. Even though a bright spot eventually emerges, literally, when Clark finally gets the Christmas lights to work— or, rather, Ellen does— things quickly go south once her redneck cousin-in-law, Eddie (Randy Quaid), arrives unexpectedly in a dilapidated RV with his wife, Catherine (Miriam Floyd); their two youngest TEENren, Rocky (Cody Burger) and Ruby Sue (Ellen Hamilton Latzen); and their disgusting dog, Snot. Since they can't say no to family, Clark and Ellen agree to host Eddie, Catherine, and their brood for the holidays. Though this 1944 Judy Garland flick isn't a holiday movie per se, it produced one of the most popular Christmas songs in modern history. The dramatic musical documents the life of a St Louis family over the course of the year, leading up to the 1904 World's Fair. In a Christmas Eve scene, Garland's character sings "Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas" to her young sister, in hopes of cheering her up. Though the lyrics have changed slightly throughout the decades, the bittersweet song remains an enduring favorite. Painted string If your style leans towards edgy and arty, this gift wrapping idea is for you. Dip some string in paint, hold it taut, and press it onto plain paper in whatever patterns you like. When it dries, it has a street art vibe perfect for your cool presents. "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" by Jackson 5 The Jackson 5 released a Christmas album filled with holiday standards in 1970. Of all of the songs recorded for the album, " Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" was the biggest hit, peaking at No. 25 on the U.S. Billboard Hot 100. "Winter Wonderland" by Michael Bublé Felix Bernard and Richard B. Smith co-wrote "Winter Wonderland" in 1934. Since then, it has been covered over 200 times by popular recording artists, such as Frank Sinatra, Elvis Presley, Kylie Minogue, and, of course, Michael Bublé. Play it when you're browsing outdoor Christmas decoration ideas or hanging lights on your house. Natural elements Nothing says Christmas like a bit of evergreen. Tucking some nice sprigs or pine cones into your rustic brown paper packages (tied up with string, of course) gives them a festive air. Plus, the green pops against the plain background. Pro tip: Make wrapping more fun with a soundtrack of funny Christmas songs. "Run Rudolph Run" by Chuck Berry Written by Johnny Marks and Marvin Brodie, "Run Rudolph Run" was popularized by Chuck Berry in 1958. The Christmas carol was also a hit on the U.S. Billboard Hot 100. Cinnamon stick gift wrapping idea The only thing better than a gift that looks good is a gift that smells good, too. Tie together a couple of fragrant cinnamon sticks and your brown paper package will become a piece of decor. That way, even if you're rocking around one of the best artificial Christmas trees this year, your home will still smell amazing. HUVrest gift wrapping idea We love the contrast between rustic and elegant on this gift, with its dried apple, walnut, pine cone, and cinnamon stick bunch topped with a sweet lace bow. Wrap gifts for your best friends Featured in At the Movies: National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation/Roger & Me/Triumph of the Spirit/Mystery Train/Thelonius Monk: Straight, No Chaser (1989). "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas" by Judy Garland In 1944, Hugh Martin and Ralph Blane co-wrote the Christmas song "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas" for Judy Garland to sing in the film Meet Me In St. Louis. In 2004, the song was ranked No. 76 on AFI's 100 Years. 100 Songs. It pairs perfectly with your favorite Hallmark Christmas movies. Soft bags One of the most difficult things about wrapping gifts is the great variety of shapes and textures those gifts come in. You can use a box or gift bag when wrapping irregularly shaped or soft items, or you can try this trick. Simply place the item in a plain brown bag, nip it in at the waist with a red string or ribbon, and add a sprig of greenery for a festive touch. The Worst Gifts in Our Favorite Holiday Films. Kitschy fabric trim If you're the crafty type, you probably (definitely) have a bag or basket full of fabric scraps, trims, pom-poms, and more. Well, the clever gals over at A Beautiful Mess have the perfect solution to clear some space in that basket with this kitschy gift wrap. And don't worry: If you don't have fabric trimmings sitting around the house, you can order some online. "Santa Baby" by Eartha Kitt Songwriters Joan Javits and Philip Springer wrote "Santa Baby" in 1953 for Eartha Kitt. It's a playful song that pokes fun at Santa Claus' Christmas list with breathy and smoldering vocals. The opening credits feature a cartoon of Santa delivering the Griswold family's Christmas presents while also getting electrocuted, hit by bricks, setting his pants on fire, falling into the snow and being chased by a rolling snowman head. Word search wrapping paper This is one of the best gift wrapping ideas we've seen: a word search! This particular one is perfect for wishing your German friends "Merry Christmas," but for the Anglophiles out there, the alphabet is your oyster when it comes to festive messages. Vase of flowers Who doesn't love getting flowers? Combine a small bouquet with a gift package by drawing a vase onto plain wrapping paper and fasten flower stems with tape. Real flowers would look gorgeous, but faux flowers stand the test of time. "Christmas (Baby Please Come Home)" by U2 Between lead singer Bono's distinctive vocals and U2's rock-influenced arrangement, you'll be jamming around your Christmas tree to this track, which is begging for a long-lost love to return home. What is the Japanese language plot outline for National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation (1989)? Answer. Polka dots and berries You can make your own polka dot wrapping paper by using large sequins as stamps. They won't be as shiny, but the paper will be able to bend without dislodging sequins onto your floor, so that's a win. A sprig of bright red berries tucked into candy cane string is as festive as the " 12 Days of Christmas " song. Hand-stamped gift wrapping idea There's something incredibly charming about a hand-stamped look, which doesn't hinge on perfection. Get the TEENs set up with some Christmas stamps and brown paper, and add a bright ribbon or two when it's time to wrap. "Jingle Bell Rock" by Bobby Helms First released by Bobby Helms in 1957, "Jingle Bell Rock" peaked at No. 29 on the U.S. Billboard Hot 100. It was a play on the holiday standard "Jingle Bells" and the hit song "Rock Around the Clock," which was released a few years earlier. "The Twelve Days of Christmas" by Perry Como We don't know about you, but we can never remember all of the items gifted in the 12 days of Christmas song. Let Perry Como refresh your memory with his sweetly simple take on the song. "Silent Night" by Bing Crosby This beloved Christmas carol was written in 1818, more than a century before actor/singer Bing Crosby ever got his hands on it. It's the perfect song for closing out a lovely Christmas Day, though we love it for any time of the month, whether you're browsing Christmas tree ideas, wrapping gifts, or lounging in front of the fire. Gingerbread men These package toppers aren't just cute—they're edible, too! When you're making gingerbread cookies, punch a couple holes with a skewer so you can thread the string through them. If you're feeling extra creative, you could decorate each one to look like the gift's recipient. A mustache made of frosting for those gifts for Dad, perhaps? Jingle bells Instead of using ribbon to wrap your gifts, tie a string of festive jingle bells around them. A bonus: Anyone who shakes that gift won't have a clue what's inside. Still trying to sort out those holiday gifts? Don't miss these gifts for brothers. "Santa Claus Is Comin' to Town" by Bruce Springsteen Obviously, Bruce Springsteen didn't originate this popular holiday tune, which dates back to 1934, but his rendition has to make it onto your holiday playlist—it's just so much fun. Recorded during a live concert, this song from The Boss delivers on Christmas cheer. Amp up the festivity with these Christmas movie quotes. Doily cone filled with surprises Here's another amazing use for doilies. We love the idea of tucking candy, small toys, or pretty greenery between the folds. You can use it to hold a small card with best wishes for the season or a cheap Christmas gift (no one has to know!). Green and gold color scheme Green and gold are gorgeous together, and using these two colors as a base for all your gift wrapping ideas lends the base of your tree an elegantly uniform look. No green-and-gold paper around? Get crafty by decorating plain green paper with a gold pen in dots or swirls. You can gild pine cones and stick them on top or add fir branches for a more rustic look. Brightly colored wrapping paper and bows Sick of wrapping paper covered in snowmen and penguins? Let some color into the cold months with these wonderfully bright ideas. When teamed up with a contrasting ribbon, orange, hot pink, and fire engine red paper makes these presents pop under any tree. As for the items that will go inside, consider these Disney gifts. "The Little Drummer Boy" by Bing Crosby When it comes to timeless Christmas songs, we always return to the late, great Bing Crosby. It's a tune that'll appeal to every generation at your holiday gathering. Doily toppers Your gifts for Grandma aren't complete without this quaint wrapping idea. A simple paper doily turns even the most basic gift wrap into something special. It's perfect for Christmas because the lace edging looks just like a snowflake. "Joy to the World" by Pentatonix A capella group Pentatonix rules the holidays with its many versions of beloved Christmas songs. Its take on "Joy to the World" is absolutely beautiful. "Cozy Little Christmas" by Katy Perry Who doesn't want a cozy Christmas snuggled up by a crackling fire? Katy Perry gets it all right in this cute little holiday ditty. It'll put you in the mood for some eggnog, a gingerbread cookie, and one of these Christmas movies on Hulu. . .
